

Students Own Writings

ADVANTAGES AND DISADVANTAGES

Should students use their mobile phones in the classroom?

There are arguments both for and against using mobile phones in the classroom. At the moment, some schools allow teenagers to bring mobile phones to school and others don't.

One of the arguments for bringing your mobile into the class is that if there is an emergency your parents could call you. In addition, if you don't understand something, you could look it up in the mobile's dictionary very quickly or search on Google.

On the other hand, if you use the mobile while you are in class you won't pay enough attention. Also, your teacher might take it from you and that could be a disaster.

All in all, I think you could have your mobile in class, but you should turn it off and keep it inside your school bag.
