

Student Presentations

SPEAKING. Non-governmental organizations

Good morning, my name is _____ and I am going to talk about non-governmental organizations or NGO'S.

Nowadays there are many NGO's or charities working for animal rights.
I am particularly interested in this topic because of my own experiences.

These experiences include rescuing a big amount of cats in my hometown when I was younger.
My friends and I used to go swimming in the river every day.
One day we found a plastic bag, which was moving near the water.
First, we were frightened but then, we looked inside and we found some baby cats crying.
After that, we saved many cats along the years.

This little story was the beginning of a campaign in favour of animal rights.
We were a group of six girls and we decided to raise awareness in the social media.
We sent messages through Facebook and Twitter all over the world.
We became activists and took part in many demonstrations.
We organized some fundraising activities on the Internet and found some sponsors like 'Pedigree' and 'Royal Canin'.
We got lots of money and we built a shelter house for cats and dogs.

In my opinion some pets are very important to people and can become your best friends but also, they have rights and we must respect them.

María A. (2016)